

Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 23 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:

Cloudy in the far west tonight, clearer spells further east.

This Evening and Tonight:

Cloud, and a little light rain or drizzle, will encroach further into western areas overnight. Eastern areas staying dry with largely clear skies throughout, feeling chilly here. Minimum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Thursday:

Cloud continues to spill in from the west through the morning, reaching eastern areas for the afternoon, with patchy light rain or drizzle. Feeling cool under the cloud. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

Friday to Sunday, changeable with outbreaks of rain or showers, some of these heavy and possibly thundery, and drier, brighter interludes with some sunny spells.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.